

To whom it may concern:Radio and Television stations have no right to dictate to us what we can listen to or watch. As a consumer I reserve the right to choose what entertainment I want to listen to or watch. The only reason they dont want XM to exist is because it makes their operation obsolete and less desireable. They need to move with the times. They are probably losing revenue as well and are not concerned with the welfare of the general public but only with the dollars that they line their pockets with. So... in short the corporate welfare is the only concern if this law is passed not the people who make it possible for them to profit. Without the everyday person(consumer) they would not be in business. I mysely am a small business owner and without my customers I am out of business. They need to remember this and stop trying to use their consumers to line their large pockets.

Thanks for your support,
David M. Owens